Enterprise Portals and Applications

Projects with individual functionalities, customized for specific work flows, require tailor-made solutions.

However, all projects have one aspect in common: a highly interactive nature. Our solutions serve as the gateway between functional processes and the user.

Due to our extensive experience in the field of custom software engineering we are capable of meeting customer demands and of creating products which are fun to use.

Part of our corporate policy defines that software should at all times adjust to the user, not the user to the software.

These services comprise:

- Corporate web sites
- Press and media web sites for corporate communication
- News portals
- Web databases
- CRM systems
- Workflow-orientated back-end applications
